JOB QUALIFICATIONS

We are looking for candidates who will contribute to the school's continuous development of Educational Innovation and Excellence and who have a specific interest and expertise in Educational Sciences, more specifically in educational development, student (active) learning and assessment, staff development, and competency development.

The candidate is expected to show evidence of strong research excellence (e.g. publications in top tier international journals). He/she also needs to provide evidence of strong teaching skills and/or professional experience. He/she will teach at undergraduate, graduate and postgraduate levels and also contribute to the design and development of the Department's programs.

The School provides ample resources to support a variety of research interests and activities, and has comparative advantage in promoting cross-disciplinary research that is needed in the modern business world. The School maintains an excellent network with overseas institutions for collaborative work. Over the last few years, faculty members have been successful in publishing their research papers in top-tier refereed international journals.

Applicants should possess a PhD in in the field of Educational Psychology, Educational Sciences, Learning Sciences, Human Resource Development or a related field, have demonstrated sufficient skill and mastery in conducting educational development projects and be able to provide evidence of publications (and/or demonstrate the potential to publish) in reputable academic journals. Applicants should be completely fluent in English as all courses will be taught in this language. Prior knowledge of French is not required as the School will provide French courses to faculty members.

Applicants for the post of Assistant Professor should have the potential to secure publications in top-tier refereed journals. For appointment at the Associate Professor level, applicants are in addition required to have (a) extensive higher education teaching and relevant research experience; (b) a strong publication record in top-tier refereed journals; and (c) good networks in both academia and professional circles at regional and international levels. Candidates with less experience will be considered for appointment at Assistant Professor level.
